His Disaffection Gave the Common Pleas Court a Hard Nut to Crack and Some Five or Six Lawyers an Opportunity of "Carving" for a $15,000 Estate—An Instrument That Could Be Made to Read Two Ways—Interesting Questions That Cropped Up in Court.

A slight experience in what a copy editor has to contend with was the lot of Judge Archbald yesterday in presiding over the ejection case of Minnie Weber, now Minnie York, against John Weber, Jr., Minnie Kiefer, John R. Jones, John H. Hughes, Mollie Weber, Joseph Weber, Celia Weber and Lizzie Howell.

The parties are heirs of the late John Weber, of Taylor, the plaintiff being granddaughter, the others being sons or daughters or their heirs. The executors placed the present defendants in possession of the testator's real estate. The granddaughter's reading of the will made her believe she and not they were the residuary legatees, and she brought suit to secure possession of the property, which is valued at $15,000.

This is the disputed case in the will on which the case hinges:

I give * * * all real estate * * * to my dear wife, Tracie Weber, for life, and after her death, to my daughter, Minnie Weber, of Hyde Park, said county and state. I give and bequeath the sum of two hundred dollars to be paid to her on attaining the age of 21 years, if living at that time. But if not living then my will is that the said sum of two hundred dollars shall sink into and become a part of the residue of my personal estate.

JUDGE'S CONSTRUCTION.

Judge Archbald construed the will to read that Mrs. York, the plaintiff, was entitled to $200 and no more and directed the jury to find for the defendants.

John F. Scraggs and Hon. W. H. Joseph represented the plaintiff. Cornelius O'Leary, Hon. H. A. Knapp and Joseph O'Brien appeared for the defendants. The will was drawn up by a local squire.

Whether or not a dance hall bar is really proved to be the controlling feature in a mechanic's lien case heard before Judge Archbald.

M. D. Brown & Co., lumber dealers of Olyphant, were the plaintiffs and Theophilus Komeczny, a Winton saloon keeper, the defendant. The plaintiffs claimed for $50.25 worth of lumber delivered for the construction of a hall in the rear of Komeczny's saloon, which is located on a property owned by his wife. The defendant tries to defeat the operation of the lien by alleging that the credit was given individually to Komeczny and not to the property, and that the wife opposed the construction of the hall, but the main contention was that the lien was defective in not having been filed within six months from the time of the completion of the building.

Train of Coal Cars Crashed Into a Trolley Car.

At the Storrs' crossing at Piceburg, at noon yesterday, a train of coal cars which was being pushed up the grade to the Storrs breaker by a Delaware, and Western engine, crashed into a trolley car bound from Peckville to this city.

The trolley car was turned completely around and badly wrecked, and Harry Whittall, a Piceburg hotel-keeper, who was riding on the front platform, was thrown under the car and sustained a broken collar-bone and many painful bruises.

It is feared he has several broken ribs, but it is so stout that Dr. W. P. Kennedy, who is attending him, was unable to give a positive opinion on that subject yesterday. Whittall weighs over 250 pounds. Dr. Kennedy believes he will recover.

There were only three other passengers on the car. Lewis Hancock, of this city; Martin Wittig, of Peckville, and a Hungarian. They escaped without injury. Michael Carden was motorist of the car and John Connor, conductor.

LEWIS, REILLY & DAVIES,

Scranton, Pa.

stated that, up Winton way, it was a rule hardly admitting an exception.

J. W. Carpenter appeared for the plaintiff and H. S. Alworth for the defendant. The jury still had the case at adjourning time.

Attorney E. H. Shurtleff's suit to recover a $2,000 fee from Thomas Davis, for professional services, was called before Judge Purdy, just prior to adjourning.

Mr. Shurtleff represented Mr. Davis in the famous Russell Coal company suits and established his claim to a $75,000 coal tract. The defense is that it was a contingent fee and that as the verdict had not as yet been realized upon, the fee is not due.

The litigation in which Mr. Shurtleff earned the fee extended over a period of nearly six years, or from June 24, 1892, to May 7, 1898. It first came up in the form of an equity case entitled Joseph Shurtleff against Thomas Davis and others, and was referred to arbitrators. An appeal was taken from the arbitrators' award and the case developed into an ejectment suit, with Thomas Davis, H. C. Combs, M. Mayer, W. R. Williams, as plaintiffs, and A. B. Russell, Jerome Brittain and Joseph Davenport as defendants. It was tried here twice and twice went to the supreme court, the plaintiffs finally securing satisfactory judgment.

L. H. Burns represents Mr. Shurtleff. The defense is represented by Attorneys John R. Edwards and T. P. Duffy.

WILLIAMS SEEKS TO RECOVER.

A jury was being called just before adjourning in court room No. 1, to try the suit of Richard R. Williams against Isaac P. Hand and Edward Dolph, executors of the estate of Edward Dolph, deceased. Vosburg & Dawson represent the plaintiff, and the defense is looked after by Welles & Torrey, ex-Attorney General H. W. Palmer and I. P. Hand, of Wilkes-Barre.

It is a suit to recover $11,700. Williams alleges he was engaged by the late Edward Dolph, as a mining expert, to open up the "Anna Bell" coal tract in Winton, his compensation to be five cents a ton on all coal mined and shipped from the tract.

Two years ago the coal was leased to the Dolph Coal company, limited, and later in the year the company was sold to the plaintiff, the company has mined 234,000 tons of coal and he wants his commission of five cents a ton, or $11,700.

The company denies the existence of the lease agreement and maintains that Williams was paid for the work he performed.

The jury in the case of Jane Reop against the city of Scranton went to the Third ward, yesterday morning, to view the alleged damaged premises and late in the afternoon returned to deliberate upon a verdict. No agreement was reached up to adjourning time.

The case of F. E. Everett against E. G. Thomas was referred to Attorney R. J. Bourke.

DISPOSITION OF THE VON STORCH ESTATE

WILL WAS YESTERDAY ADMITTED TO PROBATE.

Vast Property of the Late William Von Storch is Divided Among His Relatives, His Two Nephews and Two Nieces Coming in for the Bulk of the Estate—Six-eighths Divided Between Charles and Belle Von Storch and Two-eighths Between Cramer and Mrs. Vandling.

The will of the late William Von Storch was, yesterday, admitted to probate by Register Koch and letters testamentary were granted to Charles H. Van Storch and T. Cramer Von Storch, his nephews.

The instrument was signed June 25, 1893, and was witnessed by Major J. B. Fish and Hon. H. A. Knapp.

The bulk of his property goes to his nephews and nieces, Charles H. Von Storch and Belle Von Storch, his sister, and T. Cramer Von Storch, and sister, Helen J. Vandling. The first two each receive a three-eighths portion, and the latter two a one-eighth portion, each. Nothing in the will indicates the full value of the estate, but it is estimated the coal royalties alone are worth $2,000 a month. The will is given here in full:

I, William Von Storch, of the city of Scranton, Pennsylvania, being of sound mind, memory and understanding, do hereby make this my last will and testament, hereby revoking and making void any former wills by me at any time heretofore made.

First—I hereby direct that my just debts and funeral expenses be paid as soon as convenient after my decease.

My BEQUESTS.

Second—I hereby devise to my nephew, Charles H. Von Storch, and my niece, Belle Von Storch, children of my brother, Godfrey Von Storch, their heirs and assigns forever, share and share alike, those two certain lots of land contiguous to each other, upon one of which I have resided for many years, known as the "church" lot and the "Academy" lot, and being fully described in a certain deed from Abel Bennett and wife to me, bearing date March 30, 1863, and recorded at Wilkes-Barre in deed book No. 137, page 526, etc.

Third—I hereby give, devise and bequeath to my nephews and nieces, Charles H. Von Storch and T. Cramer Von Storch and Belle Von Storch and Helen J. Vandling, all my interest in a certain tract of coal land fully described in the preceding paragraph, to wit: To Charles H. Von Storch, his heirs and assigns, three undivided eighths part of all my present interest in the said coal property, and the proceeds thereof; to Belle Von Storch, her heirs and assigns, three-eighths of the same; to T. Cramer Von Storch, his heirs and assigns, one-eighth of the same, and Helen J. Vandling, her heirs and assigns, one-eighth of the same.

Fourth—I hereby give and bequeath to my nephew, Charles H. Von Storch, one large iron safe in my residence.

Fifth—I hereby give and bequeath to my niece, Belle Von Storch, my folding chair, my best dining table standing in the back parlor of my residence, and three pictures in the same room, being the pictures of myself, my wife and my mother, with the frames on the same.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Sixth—All other articles of personal property in the way of household furniture and effects in my residence I give and bequeath to Caroline Cowles, wife of William Cowles, niece of my late wife.

Seventh—All the rest and residue of my estate of whatever kind or nature and wherever situated, including my interest in the stocks, bonds, mortgages, judgments, bonds, stocks, debts owing to me, and all other forms of property, which I may have at the time of my death, existing specifically devised and bequeathed heretofore, I give and bequeath my said nephews and nieces, Charles H. Von Storch and his sister, Belle Von Storch, and T. Cramer Von Storch and Helen J. Vandling, in the proportions of three-eighths each to Charles H. Von Storch and Belle Von Storch and one-eighth each to T. Cramer Von Storch and Helen J. Vandling.

Eighth—I hereby direct that Caroline Cowles, wife of said William Cowles, shall have the free use of my present residence, if I shall die seized and possessed of the same, for the term of one year after my death, if she shall so long survive.

I hereby nominate and appoint my nephews, Charles H. Von Storch and T. Cramer Von Storch, executors of my will, and my niece, Belle Von Storch, as and for my last will and testament in the presence of us, who have heretofore subscribed our names as witnesses thereto, and in the presence of the said testator and of each other, his sister, Helen J. Vandling, J. R. Fish, Henry A. Knapp.

Sustained the Referee.

In the case of Emery C. Ruble against the Diamond Accidental fund, Judge Archbald yesterday handed down an opinion sustaining the findings of Referee H. C. Reynolds and dismissing the exceptions of the plaintiff. The opinion reads as follows:

"The referee in his deposition of the case has followed the opinion expressed by the court in passing upon the exceptions to his previous report. We see no occasion to modify that opinion and the exceptions now taken must therefore fail. The case as now made prevents no material questions not already passed upon.

The accidental fund withheld payment of funeral benefits on the death of the plaintiff's husband, because he was in arrears. Not denying that he was in arrears, the wife attempted to collect on the ground that no legal notice of the arrearage was brought home to him. The referee at first decided in favor of the plaintiff, but later when Judge Archbald sustained exceptions to the report, the referee reversed his finding and awarded in favor of the defense. Judge Archbald now sustains the finding.
